

Welcome to the Lofar Operations Wiki

This Wiki exists to collect operations related information of LOFAR. It is maintained by Observatory staff, but it is relevant to a broader audience.

To enter this wiki, you can choose one of the sections in the navigation window on the left, or do a 'search' query in the search box.

Please read the LOFAR Operations Wiki guidelines for the purpose and the rules of this Wiki site, before you start editing.

All users are invited (even urged!) to add or update information in this Wiki. If you want to add new information, but have not yet decided or just don't know where it belongs, please enter the information in the waitingroom. Your information can always be moved to a more appropriate place later. The most important thing is, is that the information then already has entered this Wiki, which makes it available to other users. All contributions must be in English.

When you enter the first time, or without logging in, you can only access the Introduction and the Public area. Please read the Introduction and guidelines if you plan to contribute. Access to other areas and the right to make modifications can be granted when you register for an account, first.

Questions and remarks can be send to the administrator.
